Biographical/Administrative History

In 1946, Cardinal Stritch established a new archdiocesan agency, the Catholic Action Federations (CAF), under the leadership of Reverend William J. Quinn. This new agency was to be composed of three groups or federations: the Christian Family Action (which was changed to Christian Family Movement, {CFM}), the Young Christian Workers (YCM), and the Young Christian Students (YCS).

The underlining philosophy of the federations came from Pope Pius XI's ideology of Catholic Action—"the participation of the laity in the apostolic mission of the hierarchy." To carry out this directive, the technique of the "Inquiry Method of Observe-Judge-Act," perfected by Joseph Cardinal Cardijn, was implemented. The methodology was based on observing situations, judging the observations with Christian principles, then responding with some type of action to better the situation.

There were two principles that gave the Catholic Action Federations its structure: small groups and lay persons in leadership roles. The small groups were developed to better facilitate unity. The lay people were the driving force behind the Catholic Action Federations, while guidance and support was given by priests and women Religious.

By the 1950's, the movements had grown locally and expanded into national entities. Chicago became the nucleus for leaders around the country to gather for training, sharing new ideas and resources, and prayer. During Catholic Action Federations peak years, the Christian Family Movement had two thousand five hundred couples participating; the Young Christian Workers had six hundred young people; and over three thousand students in the Young Christian Students. These participants were trained for lay leadership positions. Once training was concluded, they went to various institutions within their communities, such as, schools, parishes, and work places. At the time the movements were peaking, Msgr. Quinn was becoming involved with the plight of migrant workers. In 1960, he was invited to represent the bishops of the United States in this ministry. Reverend Laurence D. Kelly was appointed his successor.

Throughout the 1960's, various action programs came out of movements, including, the Papal Volunteers for Latin America (PAVLA), the Summer Lay Apostolate Committee (SLAC), the Chicago Area Lay Movement (CALM), the Archdiocesan Home and School Program, the Parish Committees on Community Life, the Parish Council Movement, the Commission on Human Relations and Ecumenism, the Chicago Conference on Religion and Race, and the Black Christian Students (BCS).

The Second Vatican Council tried to facilitate even greater participation of lay leadership in the Church. The Catholic Action Federations suffered a severe drain of its leadership as lay leaders, clergy, and religious were drawn into the new ministries and roles opened by Vatican II. In 1969, Reverend William J. McNulty succeeded Rev. Kelly as chaplain to the Catholic Action Federations.

In the early 1970's, the focus of the Catholic Action Federations had shifted to research, analysis, and experimentation. Membership in the movements was in a decline. The YCS and YCW had ceased to exist, while the CFM had fallen to a membership of approximately six hundred couples.

By 1980, the CFM had fallen under the administration of the Office for Marriage and Family Life. In 1983, the latter was disbanded and reformulated structure in 1991, Lay Groups is now an agency within the Division of Christian Life and Witness under the Department of Evangelization and Christian Life.

Provenance

Accruals

A second accession (198802501) on January 25, 1988 added 6.5 linear feet of Administrative Files to this collection. Materials included papers from Young Christian Workers (1958-1970) and Young Christian Students (1961-1970), subject files (1958-1970), and correspondence (1957-1973).

Separations

Scope & Content

The records, which comprise five cubic feet, were transferred to the archives from its previous location at St. Mary of the Lake University in Mundelein, IL. The records had been stored at St. Mary's when the Catholic Action Federations (CAF) fell into decline in the 1970's.

The bulk of the records date from 1958 to 1970, which roughly covers Reverend Laurence Kelly's term as chaplain of the Catholic Action Federations. This time span also covers the peak years of the CAF, the development of numerous action programs, and the beginning of the decline of the CAF. Unfortunately, the early years of the CAF, including its establishment, are not represented. Also sparsely represented is the Christian Family Movement.

The collection is divided into four series: Correspondence files, Subject files, Young Christian Students, and Young Christian Workers.

Series Description
