Biographical/Administrative History

George William Mundelein was born to parents Francis and Mary Mundelein in New York, on July 2, 1872. From his earliest years, Mundelein was educated by religious orders. Between school and a devoutly Catholic family, the Church made a distinct impression on the young man. He excelled in his studies at St. Nicholas' Parochial School and was able to enroll at De La Salle Academy in New York. Upon completion of his degree, he was offered a commission to Annapolis but turned it down in favor of a higher calling. Mundelein's dedication to study and commitment to the Church attracted the attention of prominent members of the Brooklyn clergy like Bishop McDonnell. With his support, Mundelein earned a chance to study at St. Vincent's Archabbey outside of Beatty, Pennsylvania. By 1892, he was enrolled at the Urban College of Propaganda in Rome, Italy. After the requisite three years at the North American College, Mundelein was still one year younger than the canonical age for ordination. Bishop McDonnell again intervened and secured a dispensation for Mundelein's early ordination to the priesthood. The dispensation was only granted because Mundelein had already proved his dedication to the Church through diligent study and active involvement in the college.

Ordained by Bishop McDonnell in 1895, Mundelein then served a Lithuanian church in Williamsburg before being appointed rector of the Cathedral Chapel Queen of All Saints. At the young age of 26, he became Chancellor of Diocese of Brooklyn. Mundelein earned a series of accolades and appointments as a result of his deft mediation of the diocese' many parishes and ethnic groups and his continued dedication to Church values. In 1903, he became censor of the Liturgical Academy. In 1906, he became the Right Reverend Monsignor Mundelein and a domestic prelate to the Pope's household. In 1907, he became a member of the ancient academy of Arcadia. In 1908, he was granted the degree of Doctor of Divinity by the College of Propaganda. On February 21, 1909, he was installed as the Auxiliary Bishop of Brooklyn by Bishop McDonnell at the age of 37.

1915 was a year of momentous change for Mundelein as he was appointed Archbishop of Chicago and succeeded Archbishop Quigley. Focusing his early work on education and youth projects, Mundelein instituted school boards, boys and girls clubs, and Knights of Columbus sponsored delinquent youth programs. Moving on to charities, higher education, and religious education, Mundelein inspired positive change in the organization of the Catholic Church in Chicago. He was able to navigate the political and business environments of Chicago with his winning attitude and demonstrated commitment to hard work. His personal relationships with many of the notable families of the Midwest also secured him a measure of influence in these arenas. These skills only increased his ability to financially provide for the archdiocese through fundraising and savvy budgeting.

Further demonstrating his commitment to education and religious life, Mundelein built a seminary in Libertyville—the town would soon change its name to Mundelein in his honor—that would become specially recognized by Rome. The seminary was granted the special privilege to grant outstanding students Doctorates of Sacred Theology.

In 1934, 29 years after his ordination to the priesthood, George Mundelein was elevated to Cardinal. The ceremony took place in Rome in early May of 1924. Upon his return to Chicago, the city overwhelmed him with congratulatory celebrations and gifts.

The new Cardinal almost immediately set plans in motion for an international Eucharistic Congress to be hosted in Chicago, and, in the summer of 1926, those plans became reality. Thousands of Catholics gathered to participate in the ceremonies and the congress's success did much for Cardinal Mundelein's reputation.

In 1928, he selected Father Bernard Sheil as his auxiliary bishop, and together they continued to establish organizations and projects that supported youth and social justice in the city. He continued to speak out against injustice both locally and internationally—including against Hitler and his policies—and in support of those doing good works—like Mother Cabrini.

On October 2, 1939, George Cardinal Mundelein died at the age of 67 leaving a legacy in the Catholic Church and the city of Chicago.
