Biographical/Administrative History

John Patrick Cody was born on December 24, 1907 to Thomas and Mary Cody, two Irish immigrants, in St. Louis Missouri. Thomas Cody was a member of the St. Louis Fire Department, rising to the rank of district fire chief. Cody attended Holy Rosary parish school and at the age of thirteen, entered St. Louis Preparatory Seminary. In 1925, Archbishop John Glennon selected Cody to attend the North American College in Rome. On December 8, 1931, Cody was ordained to the priesthood. He remained in Rome to continue his education, earning a doctorate in sacred theology. After completing his graduate work in 1932, Cody continued to live in Rome, serving as Vice Rector of the North American College and later as a staff member to the Secretary of State Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, who later became Pope Pius XII. While in the in the Secretary of State's office, Cody befriended another future Pope, Giovanni Montini (Pope Paul VI). Also at this time, Cody earned a second doctorate: canon law.

In 1938, Cody returned to St. Louis to serve as personal secretary to Archbishop John Glennon and chancellor of the Archdiocese of St. Louis. During World War II, Cody headed three National Catholic Community Service Clubs for servicemen and led the Vatican's relief effort for German and Italian prisoners of war. Because of his work, Pope Pius XII named Cody a bishop. On July 2, 1947, Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter consecrated Cody as Auxiliary Bishop of St. Louis. In 1954, Cody became coadjutor bishop of the Diocese of St. Joseph, Missouri and continued to serve as coadjutor after the diocese of St. Joseph merged with the Diocese of Kansas City in 1956. With the death of Archbishop Edwin O'Hara in 1956, Cody was installed as bishop of the Diocese of Kansas City-St. Joseph. In 1961, Pope John XXIII appointed Cody coadjutor archbishop of New Orleans. The following year Cody became archbishop of New Orleans after the death of Archbishop Joseph Rummel. During his tenure as archbishop, Cody founded the diocesan paper, the Clarion Herald and built many new Catholic schools. Cody caused much controversy when he ordered the desegregated Catholic school. During the Second Vatican Council, Cody was a member of the Commission for Seminaries, Studies, and Catholic Education.

Near the end of the Second Vatican Council, the Archbishop of Chicago Albert Cardinal Meyer died; Pope Paul VI chose Cody as his successor. In August 1965, Cody was installed Archbishop of Chicago. Two years later, the Pope elevated Cody to the rank of cardinal, naming him cardinal - priest of St. Cecilia Church in Rome. Cody's seventeen - year reign as Archbishop of Chicago was marked by many positive changes and controversies. On the positive side, Cody established life and heath insurance plans for priests, created a pension plan for all employees of the archdiocese, centralized the administration of the archdiocese, permitted archdiocesan priests to organize into an association: the Association of Chicago Priests, instituted the Presbyteral Senate, and divided the archdiocese into seven vicariates. Socially, Cody continued to support and fight for the Civil Rights Movement. He met with Dr. Martin Luther King to discuss King's northern city campaign. Prior to King's open housing marches in Chicago, Cody worked with the City of Chicago and King to create procedures to ensure order in the city. Moreover, Cody subsidized minority parishes with about three million dollars a year. He also created a sharing program in which wealthier parishes held collections for a sister parish in the inner city. Besides embracing the Civil Rights Movement, Cody also adopted many reforms of the Second Vatican Council. One such reform was his enthusiastic support for the ordination of laymen to the permanent deaconate. Because of Cody, the Archdiocese of Chicago has the largest lay deaconate in the United States. However, Cody administration was marred by numerous scandals and controversies. Many priests and bishops consider Cody a poor administrator and an authoritarian. Cody often arbitrarily made decisions himself without consulting competent experts and refused to delegate authority to others. In addition, Cody financial mismanaged Archdiocesan funds, primarily by investing in questionable ventures. Personally, Cody was rumored to have engaged in spying on individuals and was vindictive against people who disagreed with him. Cody's faults as administrator and personality flaws led to two major scandals. The first was involving the creation of the Catholic Television Network of Chicago (CTN/C). Controversy surrounding CTN/C began on the day Cody announced he was launching the television network. In 1974, without seeking advice from archdiocesan priests or his staff, Cody informed the Presbyteral Senate he intended to start a Catholic television network. On February 3, 1975, CTN/C began broadcasting to all parishes in the archdiocese with the mission of supporting religious programming. Soon afterward, CTN/C lost its focus because of CTN/C's station manager Charles Hinds. Hinds changed the mission of CTN/C by spending money on producing television commercials not religious programming. Many Catholic criticized Cody for spending millions on CTN/C and not enough money on social programs for inner-city parishes and schools. When Joseph Bernardin became archbishop of Chicago, he closed CTN/C.

A second major scandal was his involvement with a woman named Helen Dolan Wilson. In September 1981, the Chicago-Sun Times broke the news that Cody was under a Federal Grand Jury investigation for illegally diverting millions dollars from the church funds to support Wilson. Cody described Wilson as a cousin since Wilson's father married Cody's aunt after the death of his first wife (Wilson's mother) in 1912. Cody and Wilson were close throughout their lives. Wilson was frequently seen at many church and social functions with Cody, including his consistory. As chancellor of the archdiocese of St. Louis, Cody obtained a job for Wilson as a secretary with the archdiocese, which she held from 1944 until her retirement in 1969. Questions about the nature Cody and Wilson's relationship shadowed Cody throughout his ecclesiastical career, but these questions remained private, mostly gossip among Church employees, until the Chicago-Sun Times reveled in spite of her meager pension with the archdiocese of St. Louis, Wilson owned a home in Florida, St. Louis, and rented an apartment in Chicago (Chicago – Sun Times, September 11, 1981). Cody never answered the charges against him because died on April 26, 1982. The grand jury investigation continued after his death but no charges were ever brought against Cody's estate or Wilson.
